

L. XII, NO. 20.

LIMA, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1895.

PRICE THREE CENTS

THE ERIE.

Entire System Sold for Reorganization.

BIG RAILROAD DEAL.

HIGH LIMA IS DEEPLY INTERESTED.

Lima, Nov. 8.—The Erie Railroad system, from New York to Salama, and from Lima to Chicago, sold for $20,000,000 over the indebtedness. It is reorganized along the entire system.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 8.—An evening paper in the quiet town of Ramapo, a stupendous railway transaction was effected. The vast Erie system was sold to C. H. Carter, Louis A. and Anthony J. Thomas, the reorganization committee, for $20,000,000 and the bonded indebtedness of the road. The matter was kept so secret that the high officials of the time and place of sale.

Many months the Erie has just sold to struggle on under a debt of $75,000,000. Reasonably bonded it would be a money maker. To effect the services of J. P. Morgan were secured, and this side was the result. Reorganization scheme is intricate and far-reaching. It embraces a thorough reorganization of the entire line from New York to Chicago, providing a cancelling of all present securities giving the holders stock in the company, and practically assures future stability of the road.

SMALL ENGAGEMENT.

Hours' Severe Fighting and Forty Men Killed.

VANA, Nov. 8.—An important event occurred Wednesday at Cayo, near the border between Santa and Matanzas, in the southern of the island. The column of the forces of the civil guard, commanded by Colonel Luis, had an engagement with the guerilla bands of Lacerat Nunez and Perez. The action was fierce and lasted from 2 o'clock afternoon until into the night. Reports state that under cover of the darkness the guerillas fled. In the fighting it was found that they had slain 30 killed and a large number of wounded. The reports state the troops lost on their side one and seven soldiers killed and a number wounded.

HOLMES' VICTIMS.

Letters for Letters of Administration to Settle Their Estates.

WORTH, Tex., Nov. 8.—Q. T. Land filed application for letters of administration on the estate of Burton Lyman, or B. F. Pictel as was his name, for the benefit of creditors. The man for whose murder has just been convicted in Philadelphia. Recently Attorney Hudson applied for letters of administration on the estate of Minnie Williams, deceased. She was the owner of property that was bequeathed to Lyman by her husband, and one of many persons Holmes is accused of deriding.

KILLED BY BEARS.

Break Into a House and Kill Two Woodsmen.

INDUSTON, Minn., Nov. 8.—Word had been from Foxboro, Wis., of a terrible tragedy enacted at that place. Two bears broke into a shed at Mars place, near Foxboro, and after killing David Falsten and Michael Enrie, woodsmen, and badly injured Frank Burnett and Thomas Grady, who fled the noise and went out to see it was.

Appeal to the Powers.

ARIS, Nov. 8.—At the meeting here delegates representing Armenian cities in various parts of Europe, resolved to address a supreme appeal to the six powers which signed the treaty, urging immediate intervention to stop "the methodical extermination of the Armenians which is being carried on by the Ottoman government."

The Durian Case.

AN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Theodore Durian was taken to court today ostensibly to be sentenced for the murder of John Lamont. There is little probability, however, that sentence will be pronounced, as attorneys for the defense move for a new trial, and this motion will entertain a continuance.

Military Instructor Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Captain W. Evans, Nineteenth infantry, has been called to duty as military instructor of the Wisconsin State university in connection with Lieutenant Chynoweth, who died the past because of dissatisfaction at the outcome of the recent hazing.

Liberty-Loving Poles.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—The Poles of this city have started a movement looking toward the sending out of about 300 recruits to join the Cuban army. The force will be composed entirely of Poles, mostly from Cleveland, Chicago and Buffalo.

Died of Blood Poisoning.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 8.—Miss Anna Kipper died yesterday from blood poisoning caused, the attending doctor says, by a bruise and scratch from a ball with which she was hit a few days ago.

FOR DEFENSE OF LAKE CITIES.

Navy Department Will Ask Congress For Supply of Rapid Fire Rifles.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—In view of the president's decision in the case of the Detroit Dry Dock company that under existing treaties naval vessels cannot be built on the great lakes, the navy department will now press upon congress the importance of allowing its estimate of $500,000 for the accumulation of a supply of rapid fire rifles for the auxiliary navy.

One of the most formidable arguments that was presented is the fact that Great Britain already has a number of small war vessels which can be quickly taken into the great lakes through the Canadian canals, and in time of war ravage our great lake cities, which are now defenseless. With a proper supply of guns on hand, however, it is argued that a large number of the magnificent American lake steamers could be rapidly armed in an emergency, and could overpower the British gun boats, which are not armored vessels. As it would take several years to make these guns, the department will ask that the appropriation be made immediately in order that the work of construction may begin.

BECOMING ALARMED.

Alabama Democrats Confer on the Silver Question.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8.—A conference is in session here between United States Senators Morgan and Pugh and free silver members of the Alabama congressional delegations to determine whether or not they will continue the prosecution of the free silver campaign inaugurated inside the Democratic party in this state. Leading Democrats are seriously considering the advisability of stopping all discussion inside the party of currency and turning their attention to reuniting the Democratic party for the coming contest. It is feared that further agitation of silver inside the party may bring on a pronounced split and the loss of the state to the Democracy.

BEATEN ALMOST TO DEATH.

But Managed to Shoot the Robber Before He Escaped.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 8.—A masked man entered the Monon and Cloverleaf railway office at Linden yesterday, and after beating Agent Keed into insensibility broke open the safe and money drawers, taking everything in sight. A farmer found the thief in his haymow, shot through the abdomen by the agent's bullet.

LOW WATER.

Caused the Explosion in the Detroit Newspaper Office.

FORTY-FIVE PEOPLE DEAD

AND THE LIST INCREASING AS THE SEARCH PROGRESSES.

The Work of Removing the Bodies of the Victims From the Debris Continues Day and Night—The Number of Persons Killed May Reach Forty-Five—Engineer's Carelessness Condemned.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—The work of removing bodies of the victims of Wednesday's explosion in The Journal building went steadily on all day and night. The list of missing decreases about correspondingly with the number of dead bodies taken out. Over 30 dead bodies have now been recovered and identified, but the number changes frequently on account of new and ghastly discoveries brought to light in the ruins. The number killed will approximate 40. Yesterday's developments demonstrate conclusively that negligent care of the boilers was the cause of the catastrophe.

Official inspectors and competent engineers examined portions of the wrecked boilers and pronounced the cause as low water, causing a superheated condition of the flues, which was followed by the dangerous injection of cold water. Engineer Thompson's carelessness is strongly condemned. The engineer of The Free Press building states that he had previously warned Thompson against leaving his boilers without having any assistant to watch them. Some occupants of the building give similar testimony. Thompson insists that he saw both boilers 10 minutes before the explosion and that they contained plenty of water and 50 pounds pressure of steam.

The portion of the building still standing was officially examined yesterday, and found to be out of plumb, wrenched by the shock and otherwise defective. It will doubtless be condemned.

The bodies of the following victims of Wednesday's horror were removed from the mass of debris yesterday:

Adolph Schreiber, Jr., bookbinder, Hillier's bindery.
John Gordon, electrotypist.
Kittie Leonard.
M. Rosa Morgan.
John Breitenbecker.
Unknown man.
Jennie Niebauer, 16, employed in Hillier's bindery.
Bertha Weidbusch, 19.
Ernest Parkins, assistant mailing clerk of The Journal.
Emma Lichtenberg, employe Hillier's bindery.
Rose Bratz, remains frightfully burned and mutilated.
Catherine Hillier, forewoman Hillier's bindery.
Lue Fritz, employe Dunlap & Company.
Anna Wiedbusche, employe Hillier's bindery.
John F. Derby, carpenter.
Joseph Bradley, carpenter.
George J. Hillier, proprietor Hillier's bindery.

NO FOUNDATION FOR THE STORY.

Mexican Minister Denies That Americans Were Imprisoned in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Senor Romero, the Mexican minister here, denies the accuracy of a published report coming from Texas to the effect that John H. Manley, engineer of the Mexican International railway, and other Americans, were arrested by the Mexican authorities and taken to Monterrey in 1889, and afterward compelled to work in certain alleged coal mines 10 miles from that city. The minister had the matter carefully investigated by the Mexican government and declares that there is not a shadow of foundation for the story. To support his story the minister has been furnished with affidavits from the officers of the railway company, United States consular officers, police officials and other persons denying that there had been any such arrests or that there are any such coal mines.

SITUATION SERIOUS.

Strikers Threaten Violence If New Men Hold Their Places.

ELWOOD, Ind., Nov. 8.—The affairs at the tin plate factory in this city are in a critical condition, and serious trouble is threatened. When the strikers learned that new men were holding their places they grew furious and flocked to the factory. Violence was threatened, and the police were called down to keep them from doing the workmen harm. The strikers held a conference with the new men, but the latter refused to give up their jobs. The strikers swear they shall, and have made arrangements for a prolonged fight.

Antrim Is Late Again.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—Emil Antrim, 16, an apprentice in the plumbing establishment of Tebean & Quinn in this city, is said to be heir to the title and fortunes of the Irish Antrim. It is claimed for him by those who have ample proof that his grandfather was Earl of Antrim, who died recently leaving an estate worth $50,000,000.

ARRESTED FOR DOUBLE MURDER.

Jerome Concell Charged With the Killing of His Adopted Parents.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—The police announce that they have discovered most damaging and convincing evidence against Jerome Concell, the 19-year-old boy who is under arrest charged with the murder of his adopted parents. Captain Frederick Lang and his aged wife. The victims lived in the suburbs of the city and Captain Lang is supposed to have been worth $100,000. Their house was entered on the night of Nov. 4. The two old people were literally pounded to death with a hammer and the house was rifled.

Suspicion fell upon young Concell and his brother, who were arrested on election night. The brother will be released, but the police claim they have found bloody clothes belonging to Jerome and that he wore shoes which fitted perfectly the tracks left by the murderer. It is also asserted that gunny sacking was used by the murderer to muffle his footsteps and that portions of this material was found clinging to the shoes worn by the boy.

BLACK BRUTE.

Probably Dangling at the End of a Rope by This Time.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Nov. 8.—Yesterday morning Miss Wilson Frobelt and another girl of Homerville were awakened by the presence of a negro who had entered their room. The negro caught Miss Frobelt by the throat. She screamed and he fled. Dogs and a posse gave pursuit. After leaving Miss Frobelt the negro went to a Mr. Jones' house and broke into his daughter's room. The girl screamed and again he ran. It is thought the negro has been caught and lynched by this time.

DID NOT REACH THE SHORE.

Drowned While Trying to Escape Section Men.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 8.—Three young men of Jersey Shore purloined the dinner pails of some section men on the railroad at Nisbet, near this city. The section men started in pursuit, the thieves taking to the river bank and jumping into the water. Two of them reached the other side in safety, but the third, Thomas Venemon, either gave out or was attacked with cramps and sank to the bottom. The body was recovered. He was 22 years of age and unmarried.

FIREBUG STILL AT WORK.

Another Attempt Made to Burn Speed Home for Children.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—Since Saturday night eight attempts have been made to burn the Speed Home for Children on East Madison avenue. The last fire occurred yesterday and was put out with considerable difficulty. All the fires have been started inside of the building. Sensational rumors are afloat and arrests are likely to be made soon. The police are investigating.

Cut His Throat.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—John Frame of Urbana, Ill., registered at the Capital House, this city, went into Miles' restaurant and ate his fill, after which he told the clerk to hang up the bill. The clerk retaliated by seizing his hat, holding it for deferred payment. Frame then returned to his room and cut his throat.

Damage Suit.

WORKS TO HILL'S BENEFIT

IN HIS STRUGGLE AGAINST THE AMERICAN RAILWAY UNION.

It Co-operates With Him in the Strike Now Threatening Against His Road. Armed Guards Engaged to Protect New Men—Railroaders Blacklisted During Strike of 1894 Being Engaged at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—All railroads having headquarters in Chicago have given positive assurance to President Hill of the Great Northern railway that as far as has in their power they will co-operate with him in defeating the A. R. U. strike now threatened upon his road. The information came from officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Burlington, the Illinois Central and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois systems. This support of the Great Northern is an outgrowth of the plan pursued by the general managers of the different railroads of Chicago when they were dealing with the strike of last year.

Mr. Hill has engaged a detective agency to furnish him armed guards, and advised the Chicago railroad managers that his road would employ any railroad man out of work who had not committed an act of violence in Chicago or elsewhere against a railroad during the strike of 1894. There are some 2,000 of these men in Chicago at the present time, whose names were on the payrolls of the railroads up to July 1, 1894. They include engineers, firemen, brakemen and flagmen. While they have been "blacklisted" for 18 months, no charge has rested against them but of having simply quit work when the strike began. At 175 Monroe street these men were being engaged yesterday and furnished transportation to St. Paul.

WORKED THE SALOONIST.

Ingenuous Tourists Secure a Supply of Free Liquor.

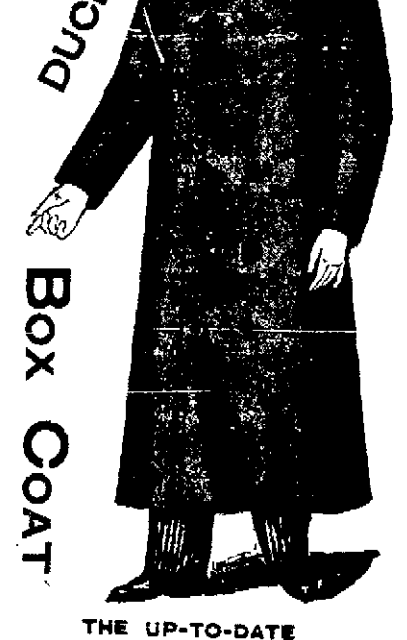

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 8.—Two knights of the road worked a saloonist, securing a supply of liquor for nothing. Entering his saloon with a gallon jug they ordered it filled and tendered a dollar in payment, which the saloonist refused, stating it was $4 whisky. They refused to pay the price and he poured it back into the barrel. The tourists left with the jug, and stopping a short distance away broke it. It contained two sponges well soaked with whisky, which furnished them several drinks at the cost of nothing.

Where United States Comes In.

"It will take years," this correspondent continues, "to revive confidence and trade and commerce lost through the present condition of anarchy, due to the deplorable weakness and inaction of the government."

As an instance of this the correspondent cites the fact that Hon. A. W. Terrell, United States minister, has been trying for two months to obtain permission for United States Consul H. E. at Aleppo to see an American citizen of Armenian origin, who has been sent to prison for life. It is pointed out that Minister Terrell has secured orders from the two grand viziers to the local authorities, which has either been rescinded before the consul had an opportunity to act upon it, or has been disobeyed by the local governor, the desired result being evaded rather than refused.

The Argon Prize.

A Good Appetite

Essential to good health, and for restoring and sharpening the digestive force, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. "For over twenty years I had dyspepsia, had no appetite and what I did eat was with me as poison. I had headaches 3 or 4 days a week, and an awful tired feeling. When I went to bed I seldom had a good night's rest. But I am glad to say Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured all my ills. I rest well at night, have a hearty appetite and can perform my household duties easily. I am glad to report the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla." ELLORA E. THOMAS, Forestville, Md.

CHINESE HAIR SOAP.

It is Disagreeable to Look at, but Has Excellent Effect.

In the great empire of China you can see some very odd things, writes Margherita Arlino Hamm. One of these is what we might call hair soap and is used for shampooing purposes. How it is made I never could find out, but from the mere appearance of the article I should say it was composed of fine curled hay, oatmeal, wheat husks, grease and a little borax. It looks for all the world like some of the oil cakes which dairymen feed to their cows in winter time. In the market it is sold by the cake, or to those who cannot afford the luxury in small pieces. The cake is round or elliptical in outline, from an inch to 2 inches in thickness, from 12 inches to 2 feet in length and from 8 to 15 inches in width. It must weigh two or three pounds.

In using it your maid breaks off a piece about as large as an ordinary cake of toilet soap. When applied to the hair, it produces a fair lather, and the hay and husk separate and work their way into the scalp. The rubbing causes them to polish the scalp as well as the hair itself. The subsequent rinsing carries away all these vegetable ingredients and leaves the hair and scalp in beautiful condition—the former soft and silky, the latter pink and warm. While the hair soap is very ugly to look at and seems altogether ridiculous, yet if you use it once you are simply charmed with your new acquisition and employ it regularly thereafter.

Equally odd and useful are the tongue scrapers. They are made of tin for the very poor, of silver for the prosperous and of gold for the very rich. They are about the general dimensions of a whalebone, excepting they are much shorter. The shortest are four inches in length, and from that they run up to a foot. One end of the metal ribbon is attached to a silver ring, by which the scraper can be hung from a nail in the bathroom when not in use. The edges are not sharp, like a knife, but resemble that of a screwdriver. What is wanted is an edge that will not cut on the one side, but will remove any coating from the tongue upon the other. Besides cleansing the tongue it is also supposed to strengthen that useful member and to keep it free from any eruption. This blade is usually plain and burnished, but in the more expensive styles it is chased in patterns that are almost Greek in their beauty and grace.

The Treatment of Headache.

"There are so many causes for head aches and so many conditions that lead up to this distressing malady that it is often very difficult to diagnose the case properly," said a medical man of wide experience. "Of course, if the root of the matter is not reached, medicines avail nothing and may do more harm than good. One thing, however, is quite certain, and that is that congestion is a very frequent accompaniment of headache, and the pressure on the brain becomes extremely painful and may lead to dangerous consequences. It is evident, therefore, that any course of treatment that relieves the overfilled blood vessels of the brain must be desirable. It is always best to consult some reliable physician, if one is within reach, but this is a great many people are averse to doing, and some are so situated that medical aid is not within call. For this class of persons a simple remedy may be mentioned that has been the means of relieving many a sufferer and is so easily applied and so absolutely harmless that it is well worth knowing."

"When the beating, thumping sensation begins in the head, take equal quantities of pure cayenne pepper and flour. Mix them up with water to form a smooth paste thick enough to spread like a salve. For this upon a piece of soft paper and apply it to the back of the neck just below the edge of the hair. In warm weather it is best to wash the neck with a cloth wet with soap and water, as the oily perspiration may interfere with the action of the plaster. One great advantage of cayenne pepper plaster over mustard is that, while the latter frequently blisters, the former never does so, no matter how strong it is applied. In the use of mustard, if the skin is broken, all treatment must cease until it heals, but with pepper, when the plaster loses its effect, another may be applied without unpleasant consequences."—New York Ledger.

The Chinese have many ways of cooking a chicken than we, with all our culinary philosophy, ever dreamed of.

Blood and nerves are closely related. Keep the blood pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla and you will not be nervous.

PIPES AND SMOKERS.

STORIES OF MEERSCHAUM COLORING TOLD BY AN EXPERT.

The Rich Peruvian Who Didn't Mind a Little Expense Where His Pipes Were Concerned—The Duke Colored the Cigar Holder in One Day, But—

"Oh, yes, you ought to be able to get a real meerschaum for $2—a plain one, of course—but there isn't much sale for the carved and ornamental ones now," said the pipe expert to his interlocutor. "Meerschaum carving was well done here 25 or 30 years ago—so well that an American exhibit only failed to receive a medal at the Paris exposition of 1887 because the judges thought the work too good to have been done on this side of the Atlantic. That building would have cost you two or three times the price in those days. It was expensive then—the work and the material both—but people had an appreciation of it that they seem to have lost since. And this is the reason, in part, at any rate: The growth of commerce has made it possible for American manufacturers to import meerschaum directly from the producers in Austria and Turkey, instead of paying the profits of ten or a dozen middlemen as they once had to do. Amber is cheaper, too, for the same reason. Then, some years ago, taking advantage of the cheap prices, cheap manufacturers went into the business with cheap labor—tenement house labor, largely—and cheapened and vulgarized the business. Now that you can buy a meerschaum at every Third Avenue cigar store, few people have any real notion of artistic work."

"I mean to cultivate a taste for it again, though—to popularize it if I can. I'm going to sell a lot of meerschaum blocks, with bowls and stem holes hollowed out, at a price pretty near cost. Then I'm going to give directions so that any man with a bent for carving can ornament his own pipe. It's such a pity there shouldn't be more popular interest in this branch of art," sighed the enthusiast, "for no material lends itself to carving like meerschaum. Why, I never see one of these irregular lumps that the shape of it doesn't suggest the beautiful form that lies within it. Here"—he snatched a sketchbook and opened it—"is a hound's head, after Landseer; a group of fallen angels, from Dore; a portrait head, carved from life—see the range of subjects? But Americans haven't generally been successful at meerschaum carving; our best workmen have come from Germany."

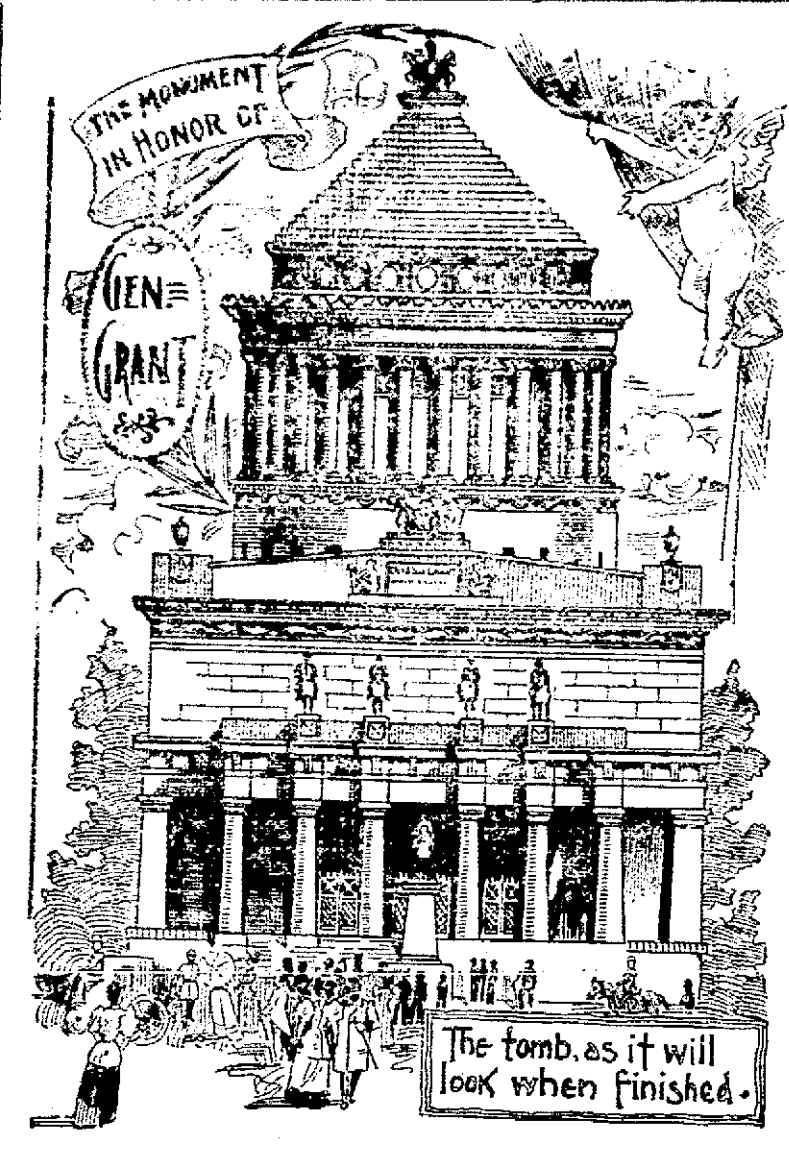

"Do I know any mechanical way of coloring a meerschaum? Oh, yes; I have known a man to fix up a small rubber bellows that was kept going by a clockwork attachment, and so did his smoking for him, but a much more common method is to hire some constant smoker to use your pipe until it gets the tint you want. British officers sometimes distribute their meerschaums among their men for this purpose, and on a long voyage passengers give their pipes in charge of seasoned old salts."

"Some years ago we had a customer, a rich Peruvian, who had bought a great many pipes from us; he had about 50 pieces of fine meerschaum. Of course he couldn't hope to color all those himself unless he smoked like a volcano, especially in the 12 months he expected to stay here. So he asked me if I knew anybody who would do it for him. I introduced him to one of our workmen, a young fellow, and the Peruvian turned over his pipes to him, supplying him with a lot of the very best tobacco he could buy. He used to come in often and watch the man at his work. He would sit and admire the slow coloring of those pipes as an artist would a painting. You know how you feel as you see the beautiful rich hues come in, don't you?"

"Well, sir, a sort of friendship sprang up between those two. The Peruvian took a personal, or perhaps a proprietary, interest in his pipe colorer, and started out by sending him to his own barber, to be shaved into more presentable shape. Then he insisted that the man should have his teeth examined, and he paid a $75 dentist's bill for him. He sent him to a fashionable tailor and gave him a fine outfit; he bought him a Panama hat, and so on until he figured that, with $4 a pound tobacco—and he kept the fellow smoking all the time—and all the rest of his expenditures on that workman, the coloring of those pipes cost him about $1,200. Then he went back to Peru, and I heard afterward that he was killed in Australia. He ought to have remembered the workman in his will, to make the romance complete, but this is a true story, and I can't say he did. Perhaps he felt himself fully furnished with pipes for this world and the next without any bequests."

"Especially if he smoked the ghost of his cat cavendish in his phantom meerschaum," suggested his listener. "Ye-es," said the other, who could appreciate Jerome too. "But I don't know about that. You see he smoked most of that cat cavendish by proxy."

"Here's another story of meerschaum coloring: The Duke of Castelluccio used to be one of my customers. One Saturday he came in and looked at a fine meerschaum cigar holder. "That's handsome," he said. "But I want it colored. Can you have it done for me on Monday?" "But, your grace, I said, 'coloring takes time. I couldn't have it done by Monday. A few weeks'— "Bah!" he said. "I will bring it to you on Monday as black as your coat." "And he did. This is how he did it: He went out and bought 100 long 5 cent cigars, went home and smoked them all day Sunday, one after the other, until they were gone. Sure enough, the holder had a beautiful color, but he had nearly spoiled his teeth, and he admitted that he wouldn't do it again. One hundred 5 cent cigars in one day was too much even for an Italian."—New York Tribune.

BELL TONES.

An Assertion That Chimes as Now Given Are Never in Tune.

We assert, as the result of a pretty wide experience, that there is probably not a single bell in England that is really "in tune with itself" and almost certainly not a single "peal" of bells that are properly in tune with each other. We do not say that there are not many peals which are in excellent tune as to the most important note in each and their general musical effect very pleasing. But we do assert that the best of these might be much better, and in the majority of cases the irregularities we complain of are such as seriously mar their musical effect and such ought to be and might be averted by more intelligent founding or in most cases rectified by more intelligent tuning after founding. This whole matter turns on the meaning of the expression "in tune with itself." Most people have an idea that every bell has one prominent, unmistakable note which characterizes it and as to whose pitch no two people with musical ears could differ. And yet we find that many have felt a peculiarity in determining the note of a familiar bell.

Now to account for this we must understand what is the true "theory" of a bell. It would surely be unreasonable to suppose that the very peculiar form of bell which with slight modifications has been preserved for so many hundreds of years was adopted without the deliberate purpose of insuring that the various tones and subtones of each bell should be in some fixed musical relation to each other. That relation is this: Every true bell should give out when fairly struck a fundamental note or "tonic," its third, fifth and octave above and its octave below, thus sounding the full chord—do, mi, sol, do, with the bass do below. This is the theory which was, we are satisfied, before the minds of the original designers of the present form of bell. Almost forgotten, if ever realized, by many of their successors, it is still recognized by some and irresistibly forced upon the acceptance of those who, like the present writer, have made a study of the tones of bells as they are.

Let us dismiss all consideration of thirds and fifths and confine our attention to the three more important notes—i. e., the tonic, its octave above and its octave below. For convenience's sake, let us call the first of these the "fundamental," the second, or octave above, the "nominal" and the third, or octave below, by the name by which it is known in English foundries, the "hum note." If, then, a bell corresponds to its "theory," these three would sound the same note in three consecutive octaves, and the bell would so far be "in tune with itself." But where shall we find such a bell? Whatever the cause may be, whether foundry, in ignorance or indifference as to the importance of having these notes in accord, have (1) for convenience of ringing altered the original proportions of bells or (2) to obtain greater power put more metal into them, certain it is that it is quite the exception to find a bell which has any two of these notes in unison, and we have not yet met with one in which all three were in accord. By far the commonest state of things is this: The "fundamental" is almost the latest of the three, irrespective of course of octave. The "hum note" is almost always the sharpest and the "nominal" generally between the two. Thus, if the nominal of a bell is C, the fundamental will probably be somewhere between C and B in the octave below, while the "hum note" will probably be between C and C sharp in the octave below that.—Fall Mail Magazine.

A Golden Rule Lost.

The golden rule, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," is no more beautiful in its sentiment and meaning than the old saying, "De mortuis nil nisi bonum." (Say nothing but good of the dead.) Both have come to us through the ages, and both are in a state of innocuous desuetude. I do not believe I know a man or woman today who lives up to either rule. Our dear old mothers drummed the first into us as we grew up, and when we became of age we departed from it. The other seems to have been an unwritten law, prompted by the chivalrous spirit of protecting those who cannot protect themselves, and I regret to say that it has fallen into disuse. No sooner does a man die in these fin de siècle days than the vultures gather about to peck at his reputation and destroy his character.—New York Press.

Did the Auto Talk?

Sir James Doyle, the great Irish naturalist, always contended that ants had a language of their own, by which they made known their wants and fears to others of their kind. One day he encountered a colony that was evidently moving to new quarters. All appeared in the very best of spirits, and whenever two met the naturalist noted that they put their heads together as though chatting very earnestly. To settle the matter in his own mind as to whether they were really talking or not, he killed one of them to observe the effect it would have on the others. The eyewitnesses to the murder hastened to the rear and halted every one of the advancing column by laying their antennae together. The column instantly separated to the right and the left, none of the marchers afterward passing within less than six feet of their dead companion, though the remains of the insect were directly in the beaten path.—St. Louis Republic.

VINEYARD IRRIGATION.

Dehydration Versus Surface Irrigation. Tested at the Utah Experiment Station.

In order to convey the water along the row, tubing was made by using six inch boards for the sides and four inch boards for the top and bottom, the tube thus made being four inches square inside. A trench was dug along the row and the tubing so placed that the top was a foot from the surface, and the side next to the vines was a foot from them. In order to apply the water to the roots of each vine, two three-fourth inch holes were bored in the tube just opposite the vines. These holes were protected from the dirt on the top and sides by boxing them in, leaving the bottom open for the free passage of the water.

When it was desired to irrigate, the water was turned in and the pipes kept full until the ground began to show the effects of it on the surface. This usually took from one to two hours. The point where the water entered was from one to two feet above the outlets, so that there was some little pressure.

In 1892 only a slight difference was noticed in favor of subirrigation.

In 1893 the average weight of fruit per vine was: Surface irrigation, 3.36 pounds; subirrigation, 4.50 pounds.

In 1894 the yield was per vine: For surface irrigation, 5.17 pounds; for subirrigation, 6.12 pounds.

This gave an increase for subirrigation over surface irrigation in 1893 of nearly 34 per cent, and in 1894 an increase of over 18 per cent. Owing to the application of the water beneath the surface the roots are undoubtedly better supplied with moisture than when the water is applied to the surface. Then there is less evaporation in the case of subirrigation, because the top soil is left comparatively dry and does not become so compact as when the water is applied to the surface.

Further trial is needed to demonstrate whether it will be a financial success or not.

Corn Harvesting Machines.

There remains no doubt but that corn harvesting machines have come to stay. The New England Homestead reports that nearly 10,000 of one make alone have been sold this year, in addition to an immense number of other machines. It says:

The machines will doubtless be much improved, and only after a corn harvester has been actually used for one or two years by the farmer in doing practical work can it be said to be an assured success. The McCormick, for instance, which cuts and binds the corn in bundles, harvested 100 acres of corn in 1890, and was supposed to be perfect then, but before it was put in the hands of the farmers the manufacturers felt it necessary to spend four years upon it and to test it all the way from the sugar cane of Texas and Louisiana to the 16 foot corn in the Wabash bottoms, the squaw corn of Dakota and the Yankee corn of Vermont.

A machine to husk corn and put it into the wagon box has now been devised. The idea is old and it remains to be seen whether this latest candidate will be a success. Years ago such a machine would have had a large market, but now the farmers recognize that cornshucks, if properly cut, eared and fed, are worth just as much per acre as the best hay. The demand for a machine of this type will be limited, to those farmers who are still willing to waste their corn fodder, or only partially utilize it by turning the stock into the cornfields after plucking the ears.

Agricultural Experiment Stations.

In this country the first agricultural experiment station was begun at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., in 1875, though similar work had been previously carried on at some of the agricultural colleges. California, North Carolina and New Jersey were among the first states to organize experiment stations.

In 1887 congress passed what is popularly known as the Hatch act, which gives to each state and territory $15,000 a year from the national treasury for the maintenance of an agricultural experiment station. Agricultural experiment stations are now in operation under the act of congress March 3, 1887, in all the states and territories. Alaska is the only section of the United States which has no station. In each of the states of Alabama, Connecticut, New Jersey and New York a separate station is maintained wholly or in part by the state funds, and in Louisiana a station for sugar experiments is maintained mainly by funds contributed by sugar planters. In several other states sub-stations have been established. Excluding the branch stations, the total number of stations in the United States is 54. Of these 51 receive the appropriation provided for in the act of congress already mentioned.

Storing Onions.

Onions, like other bulbs, can be easily preserved if kept dry, and although, if this is observed, they will stand a considerable range of temperature, it is desirable that they have a temperature of from 35 to 45 degrees. When in a damp room, they start readily, especially if at a high temperature, and as spring approaches the buds start even if kept comparatively cool. Care should be taken not to store onions in too large bulk, and to prevent heating they should be in shallow bins or in crates.

A Word About Teosinte.

At the Oklahoma agricultural experiment station this season teosinte, under favorable conditions, gave a yield of about 25 tons of green fodder per acre at one cutting. On thinner land and where there was less moisture the yield was much less. The crop was injured by chinch bugs, which seemed to feed on it as readily as on corn. It is objected to the crop that it is a difficult one to cut and handle. The fact that it does not mature seed in the United States will be a serious objection to it.

Waterproof collars and cuffs that will not wilt, are not effected by moisture and look just like linen are all the fashion now. They are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid" and are the only waterproof goods made with an interlining, consequently the only ones that will stand wear and give perfect satisfaction. Try them and you will never regret it. Always neat, and easily cleaned. When soiled simply wipe off with a wet cloth or sponge. Every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

Ask for those so marked and refuse any imitations, as they cannot possibly please you. If your dealer does not keep them, we will send a sample direct on receipt of price. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair. State size and whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted.

THE CELLULOID COMPANY, 427-429 Broadway, New York.

The Chatelaine.

The chatelaine, with its clinking, glittering silver trinkets, has a successor in the Trilby heart and chain, which promises to outdo it in popularity. But a woman is not content to wear only the big heart containing a picture of the one she loves the best of all—sometimes it is the face of a dog and sometimes that of a man—dangling from her chain. She wears a dozen gimcracks on her chain in the house that she wouldn't dream of wearing on the street, and to be happy she must have an equal number for the street that would be bad indoors.

A matron and a maid met at the novelty counter in a jewelry store the other day.

"And what are you doing out so early in the day?" asked the former of the latter.

"Oh, I'm buying outdoor things for my Trilby chain! They are absolute necessities, you know. See, here is a vee powder box, with a dear little puff inside, and a cut glass vinaigrette and a bonbon box; a case of court plaster, a knife, a tiny comb in a case, a stamp-box and pencil, and of course here is a memorandum book that I've purchased. I won't buy anything else today because the clerk tells me that they will soon bring out some entirely new things for the chains and I'm going to wait."

"Will you tell me what is left for the women to wear on these chains in the house?" the matron asked the clerk.

"Oh, yes!" he replied glibly. "They wear scissors, combs, looking-glasses, eyelet punches, pinushaws, thumb-nails and a dozen other things used in sewing or making fancy work."—Chicago Post.

The Spotted Veil.

A new coat must be added to the indictment against the spotted veil. An up town woman has been ill for several weeks, and has narrowly escaped blood poisoning from one of them. She had a slight cut on the upper lip, and wearing her veil for several hours one day, at that time, she noticed that it became moistened and adhered often to the cut. She thought nothing of it till in the evening, when she discovered that her lip was very much irritated, and began to pain her very perceptibly. By morning it was badly swollen, and a physician was called, who said at once that some foreign irritant had aggravated the slight sore, and did not hesitate to accuse the veil, when he was told of its wearing the day before and the subsequent events. The case proved very obstinate, and the sore most difficult to heal, the danger of blood poisoning at one time being very imminent. The veil was one of the ordinary black dotted sort.

It is some mitigation of the evil for the moment that fashion at present dictates that these face coverings should fly loose, after being pinned to the hat brim. The veil strapped close to the skin has been temporarily at least laid aside.—New York

Sin-eaters.

An attempt is being made to substantiate the assertion that in Wales, of ancient times, there were professional sin-eaters. The learned antiquarians have got hold of the statement, and it has resulted in a strong pro and con argument. The sin-eater touched the body with meat and then ate the viand newly flavored—presumably the sin was gone! There might be a desire to re-establish the creed of sin-eating, and we may see London restaurants arise for the purpose of carrying out this Welsh doctrine.—London Court Journal.

BICYCLING WITHOUT LEGS.
This Lad Pedals With Stumps and Can Turn Out a Mile Under Five Minutes.
Ever since the bicycle became a craze the human race, big and little, high and low, have been working hard to get it no longer to be found in scanty attire, but in proper clothes. There seems to be no limit to the fact, and the result has been no end of tracks and freaks. Now, however, the greatest of all freaks makes its appearance. It is a bicycle whose rider has no legs and only one arm.

The rider is Arthur R. Schaefer, a boy resident of De Kalb, Ill. He is 13 years old, light and as active as his physical imperfections, which came from birth, will allow. Like most cripples, his mind is precocious. The bicycling craze left him in body more hopeless and helpless than ever. A neighboring bicycle manufacturer agreed to make a wheel which the boy could ride, and he did so. His one hand guides the handle bar and bars of steel lead up from the pedals to the short stumps which he has known as legs. Strange to say, he experienced little trouble in balancing the machine. He began riding about six weeks ago, and after three or four hours' instruction and practice he made a half mile on a track in less than three minutes. He can now do a mile in less than five minutes, and expects to reduce this time to four minutes. He has already made a half mile in 2 minutes 10 seconds. He learned to dismount, and can handle the wheel readily without assistance. He has to be assisted, though, when he mounts, but he expects soon to be able to do this alone.—New York World.

His Aggravating Nickname.
The disadvantage of having a nickname applied in early youth was never better illustrated than by the experience of the boy who was known in the White House as or seven years ago as Baby McKee. He is now a resident of New York city and is a stout youngster of nearly 12, with a great fondness for baseball and other athletic sports. His life would be as pleasant as that of any other boy of that age were it not for the infantile nickname which clings to him like an incubus. On all occasions his playmates use it, and even his elders sometimes hail him with the hated appellation.
But by far the most galling part of the business is that the people all over the country ignore the flight of time and keep sending him gifts only fitted for the nursery. Dolls, rattles, rubber rings and high chairs are among the things that cause positive torture to the grandson of the ex-president, and it is hinted that he handles them any way but gently in his wrath. It is not impossible that the name will cling to him until manhood, and all because newspaper writers chose to saddle him with a nickname.—Exchange.

A Generous Little Prince.
The independence of Belgium tells a pleasant story of the crown prince of Germany, who, with his brother, was recently with their tutor at the hotel of the Chateau du Rhin. When the tutor paid the bill, he offered a money present to the chambermaid, who, however, refused the gift, pointing to a notice that tips were forbidden.
The tutor explained the situation to his eldest pupil, who thereupon went out with his brother and bought a very pretty brooch. This he gave to the maid, saying that "as it was not money she could not refuse it." As the young prince was staying at the hotel in company with the maid did not know that the donor of the brooch would probably be emperor of Germany some day.

Little King Alfonso.
The little King Alfonso XIII of Spain is patron of his rights. One of his youthful friends said to him recently: "Go! I am going to England."
"How is that?" asked Alfonso.
"My papa has been made ambassador in London by Canovas de Castillo," was the answer.
Then said the miniature ruler, mindful of his place, "It is unheard of that I was not consulted about this!"

Why She Was Disappointed.

WANTED TO FIX THE ADDRESS.

She Would Have John's Letter If She Had to Wait 24 Hours.
"What a day!" said the clerk at the telephone exchange, "the life we lead is not what people nowadays term a good thing. If you could spend a day here, you would not wonder why my hair is turning gray at 30."
"What worries me?" and the smile with which he accompanied the words was bitterness itself. "I'll tell you what worries me. A thousand and one things. A thousand and one persons of every age, character and description dining questions into my ears every minute in the day. And they expect me to answer with unperturbed amiability."
"Why, only last Friday," he continued, "a poor faced old lady came in to interview me. It was about 5 o'clock in the evening, a time when I ordinarily have a little immunity from torture. But when I saw her approach, I scented trouble. 'Young man,' said she, 'I dropped a letter in that place an hour ago. Indeed, I replied politely. 'That is the proper place for it.' 'I know, but I want it again,' she retorted. 'It wasn't properly directed.' 'I am very sorry, madam,' I expostulated, 'but it is against the rules for me to return a letter to any one. If your letter is deficient in address, write a line to the postmaster of the place to which it is going, and he will see that it is properly delivered. Besides there are a thousand and two letters in the box, and I could not find yours, even if it were right I should do so.' 'Those rules you speak about are all nonsense. I must have that letter to John now so's I can fix the address.'"

"I was beginning to get a little warm about the collar, but I held out bravely. 'It is forbidden to return a letter for whatever purpose, and I cannot do it'—this as graciously as I could—and, as I said before, I have no time to run through 1,000 or more letters. 'What!' she cried, shaking her parasol in the window uncomfortably near my face. 'Don't you s'pose I know what you're paid for? You're paid to do as the public demands. And I tell you I must have that letter. It's to John Wesley Dyer, Philadelphia, and I shan't leave till you hand it out if I have to stay till morning. D'you hear?'"

"I tried another argument. I consented to search the receptacle for the letter and hand it to the postmaster, whom she could consult in the morning. But that would not do. She must have the letter. She had put it in there and would not stir a step until she had got it and fixed the address.
"Making the best of a bad matter, I went about the task of finding the precious missive with as good grace as I could command, but though I worked as rapidly as I could frequent interruptions retarded my efforts, and half an hour had elapsed before I finally unearthed it. I asked the woman if it was the letter in question, and she said it was, fairly snatching it from my hand. And what do you suppose was the alteration she deemed so imperative? Didn't know? Well, when she returned the envelope to me, she had simply scrawled 'In haste' on the corner of it, and when I had recovered my senses I was conscious I had broken one of the commandments."—Washington Star.

Compassion.
Among the stories which were told by certain aged physicians at a reunion of medical men of the times when surgical operations were conducted without anesthetics none was more touching than the following:
A little girl not more than 8 years old was injured in such a way that it was necessary to amputate one of her legs. She proved to be of wonderful pluck, and instead of binding her, as was customary in such cases, she was given her most cherished doll to hold. Pressing it in her arms, she submitted to the amputation without a single cry.
When it was done, the physician in charge, seeking to brighten matters up with pleasantry, said, "And now, my dear, we will amputate your doll's leg."
"Then the little girl burst into tears.
"No, no!" she gasped between her sobs. "You shall not—it would hurt her too much."

Trivial Causes.
In most unhappy marriages the cause of evil has been trivial. As Steele says, the first maxim in a married man's education is that husband and wife should be above trifles. When two persons have so good an opinion of each other as to come together for life, they will not differ in matters of importance, because they think of each other with respect and are prepared for mutual assistance and relief. But for smaller matters they have made no preparations, and hence springs the mischief.

Flowers distilled, though they wither with winter meet, lose but their show; their substance still lives sweet.—Shakespeare.

PUNS AND PUNSTERS.

A DEFINITION OF THE FORMER AND EXAMPLES OF THE LATTER.
A few specimens of the better class of the lowest form of wit. Tom Hood the Prince of British Puns. He Puns as Naturally as He Laughs.

Is the pun a legitimate form of wit? Some people think not, and Dr. Johnson said that a man who would make a pun would pack a pocket. But the fact is that the general objection to puns is because of their frequent lack of wit—that is to say, it is directed to bad puns. We do not want to discuss bad puns—or even to hear them. The point is, whether good puns are admissible as legitimate and commendable expressions of humor. It is of no use to say, like Sydney Smith, that puns ought to be in bad repute, and although one needs an inextinguishable punster—often, it is true, an incorrigible bore—in every little circle of social life, one does not need the race of pickpockets to be increasing alarmingly in numbers. Nor do the statistics of crime seem to bear any relation to the productions of Planchet or Brough or of Gilbert to the spread of burlesque and the cultivation of bad balladist opera.

It is probable that there are a few, even in these days of culture, capable of appreciating the profound witicism which De Quincey discovered in the jests for which poor Julius Lamia was put to death by Domitian.
Cicero had the name of being a great punster, although not many of his witicisms have come down to us. There is one, however, that may be appreciated even without a knowledge of Latin. Once a Jew attempted to get the cause of Verres into his own hands, and Cicero, who believed the Jew to be a mere tool of the culprits, opposed him by asking, "What hath a Jew to do with swine's flesh?" The Romans called a boar "verres," so that the point was neat and appropriate.

If we want to argue the legitimacy of puns we are obliged to fall back on the old discussion as to the difference between wit and humor. The definitions are regional of course, but not one of them is wholly satisfactory. "Knowledge comes and wisdom lingers," Tennyson says, and perhaps we might found upon this a parody, with some approach to truth—that wit sparkles and humor permeates. But there is little profit to be got in analysis of this kind. What is funny isn't necessarily witty, but what is witty must have in it or suggested by it some of the essence of humor. Thus Charles Lamb was not so far wrong when he said that the most far-fetched and startling puns are the best.

The familiar inquiry, "Is it true that the first apple was eaten by the first pair?" is far-fetched, but one cannot deny the humor of it. Again, in the commenda, "Why is blind man's buff like sympathy?"—"Because it is a fellow feeling for a fellow creature," there is a direct application which is also unquestionably humorous. Then, as another example of a pun which is absurdly apparent, there was Douglas Jerrold's remark about a man to whom he had repeatedly written in vain for some money.
"I have written him," said Jerrold to an acquaintance, "but got nothing."
"Strange," said the other, "for he is a man full of kindness."
"Yes," rejoined Jerrold, "unremitting kindness."

A pun which requires explanation in brackets is indeed simply intolerable. The Oxford scholar who, meeting a porter carrying a hare through the streets, asked, "Prithee, friend, is that thy own hare or a wig?" required no commentator. This same story is sometimes attributed to Charles Lamb. Nor did Tom Hood, who, when all is said and done, remains the prince of British punsters. He puns as naturally as he laughs. A babe can see the point of his jokes, and the crustiest dry-as-dust cannot resist them.

Theodore Hook is thought by many to be equal to Hood as a punster, but Hook was labored and slow in comparison. There is an impromptu air about Hood's puns which is incomparable, and an unexpectedness, even when you are looking for them, that is delicious. Frederick Locker once or twice seemed to have Hood's unconsciousness, as thus:
He cannot be complete in sight
Who is not humorously prone.
A man without a merry thought
Can hardly have a funny bone.

John Hill Burton relates a legal joke which, to the legal mind, has all the charm of a pun. One day a bailiff, serving a writ, had been compelled by the defendant to swallow the document. In a state of great agitation and anger the officer rushed into the court, over which Lord Northbury was presiding, to complain of the indignity. He was met by the expression of his lordship's hope that the writ was "not returnable in this court."

Bret Harte, by the way, is not usually regarded as a professional wit, and yet among the good things which cling to one's memory is the complete in the "Beathan Church."

Concealed in his nails, which were taper,
What is common in tapers—that's wax.

Somebody has written a parody in which a candidate for examination even beats the record of the Mongolian:
Concealed in his palms, which were spacious,
What is common in palms—that's dates.

Speaking of palms recalls the famous pun of the bishop of Oxford, who, when asked by a lady why he was nicknamed Soap Sam, replied, "Because, madam, I am always getting into hot water and always coming out with clean hands."

Perhaps it may be said that some of these examples are not true puns. But a pun is not necessarily a twisting of spelling and a contortion of syllables, as the writers of burlesque and "comic" papers seem to think. It is play upon words, and to be really entitled to be considered witty should play both upon the sound and the sense, if possible.—Philadelphia Press.

Electric Stevedores.
One of the most wonderful labor-saving inventions of the day is the new electric stevedore. This is a movable conveyor for loading a ship with flour or grain from an ordinary wharf. Its length is 40 feet, two wheels in the centre allowing it to be moved at will. The actuating power is electricity. The revolving belt on which the sacks are placed is of rubber, and passes over 12 rollers. The belt revolves at such speed as to carry all the weight in flour or grain that can be placed upon it. This apparatus recently loaded a steamer with 3000 tons of flour at the rate of 75 tons per hour.

HOW TO PREVENT CROUP.
SOME READING THAT WILL PROVE INTERESTING TO YOUNG MOTHERS. HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THE DISEASE.
Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by Melville Bros., next to p. s. and C. W. Heister, 55 public square.

Egg Shells for Live Stock Food.
Egg shells are commonly thrown away but according to the Gazette de Compagnes this is a very regrettable practice, since they are rich in calcine salts as well as in phosphates. Pulverized shells mixed into the nourishment of young live stock and poultry will be of considerable advantage to the farmer, as they constitute a very useful nourishment, particularly for the younger animals. Stock and poultry breeders should even purchase the egg shells from confectioners, bakers and restaurants, as large quantities of them may be used with advantage.

CALUMET CLUB
Entertain Most Royally in their Elegant Quarters.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was the progressive card party given by the Calumet club to their lady friends in their beautiful rooms in the Metropolitan hotel last evening. There were ten tables filled with animated players until 11 o'clock when delicious refreshments were served, after which each one enjoyed themselves with the many amusements offered at their pleasure.

The honors of the evening were carried away by Miss Seals, the winning the greatest number of games, and receiving for a memento of the occasion a silver belt clasp.

The young ladies were enthusiastic in their praise of the hospitality of the club, who more than displayed their ability to entertain in a most charming manner.

Those who enjoyed the evening were Misses Seals, Faurot, Reynolds, Porter, Mumford, Cora Holland, Louise Gratton, Christian, Roberts, Bryan, Kline, Ballard, Kell, Pearl Gratton and Ames, and Messrs O. F. Ramseyer, E. L. Kirk, W. H. Terry, H. S. Moulton, C. B. Churchill, J. A. Meindoe, T. W. Mitchell, A. K. Holland, S. M. Churchill, A. A. Greps, C. J. Brotherton, J. F. Orthwein, C. B. Adgate, F. B. Thomas, W. W. Strickler, Y. A. DeFries, E. J. Splice, B. Jarman, H. A. Waldron, T. J. Carmody, W. A. Tibbals and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dutton.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.
Engineer Elias Greenland of the L. E. & W., is running engine 46 on the east local in the place of 39, which was ditched at Rawson a few days ago.

The rain has necessitated a temporary delay in the construction of the new center pit at the L. E. & W. shops. Work on the new boiler shop is progressing rapidly.

CRIDERSVILLE ITEMS.

THE WEATHER.

There is a narrow trough of low barometer extending from the Gulf of St. Lawrence southwestward toward Galveston, Texas. Its influence is being felt over the entire eastern half of the country. Its movement is very slowly eastward, and it has caused and will continue to cause rain or snow over the entire country east of the Mississippi river during the next 36 hours. The area of high barometer still remains over the extreme western portion of the country.

The temperature changes have been irregular, but over the greater portion of the country it is warmer. The conditions are still favorable for colder weather to prevail over this section during the next thirty-six hours. The rain have been the most general reported in many months and the drought in all sections is broken. Conditions are very favorable for rain or snow to continue over this region during the next thirty-six hours.

LAFAYETTE ITEMS.

Mr. Percy Kershem and family, of Ada, were here visiting his mother over Sabbath.

Mrs. Nancy Hall is suffering patiently and quietly with a cancer on her left side, of long standing.

Samuel Durbin, one of our good citizens near Lafayette, is very ill with a complication of diseases.

George Mehaffey and family are coming to the writer's home to spend the winter. The Metropolitan Bank directors gave him a leave of absence, hoping that the change might do him good; and we have faith in the pure air and pure water and that the physical culture exercises of the Ralston health cure will restore him to his former health.

The subject of this article was to have been the State convention of the W. C. T. U. held in Lima Oct. 2-4, '95, and scientific temperance—but the Times-Democrat gave such a good report of the convention and, so gratifying to the white ribboners at home and delegates from abroad, I will at once commence with the temperance school law. There is nothing like agitation, and we can do but very little good without it. I have given the State laws on temperance instruction in Ohio and in every other State in the United States, excepting Georgia and Arkansas. These two lone States will doubtless fall in line this winter—as the live, wide-awake superintendents of this department of the W. C. T. U. work will again petition the General Assemblies of Georgia and Arkansas for a temperance school law.

Our State superintendent, Mrs. Dysart, of Wooster, gave a very encouraging report at the State convention held in Lima, of the enforcement of the temperance school law in Ohio in the public schools. She said a majority of the county school boards gave out questions to the teachers to be examined a sufficient number to show their interest and knowledge of this branch required to be taught by law; also that in the county institutes many had instructions that were equal with other studies. We regret that the Allen county teachers' institute has not been provided with such instructions. Two years since was the exception; yet every year for several years has an effort been made in that direction, and we are still waiting and pleading for an onward and upward move in that direction, and that the next year's assembly of the educators of Allen county will be instructed in scientific temperance, as well as History, Geography, Grammar, Mathematics, &c.

The explanatory notes of the State school commissioner makes it obligatory for all teachers to instruct their pupils as to the effects of alcohol and narcotics. Not only is this matter neglected by the examiners, but a careful inquiry reveals the fact that very many of our day school superintendents, both in large towns and small villages, pay but very little attention to it whatever. There are many boys in our public schools and sometimes a few girls who need the object lessons, experiments and illustrations in Yagey's charts which are placed in all our public and district schools to show the results of the drink and tobacco habit, and often not a word is said about the nature of either poison when there are many of the pupils addicted to these habits.

I trust that the example of Supt. Miller, of the Lima Public schools, in the prohibition of tobacco in the schools, also the same position taken by Dr. Bashford, of Duaware University, will be an incentive to other presidents of colleges and superintendents of public schools, to take the same stand for the right, and then they will have the hearty co-operation of all White Ribboners in the county and State.

Parents are heavily taxed for the support of our public schools. The State has been provided for and made it imperative that this study be

Charity,
Sympathy,
Humanity,

All characterize the blameless, beautiful life of the Savior which presents an interesting, instructive, and inspiring study to every person, regardless of religious belief. This study is best aided and stimulated by the inspection and perusal of that high class art portfolio series of Palestine and the East, entitled Earthly Footsteps of

The Man Of Galilee.

A superb literary and pictorial production in 24 parts, comprising 384 splendid photo-engravings (every one a gem) from negatives all secured in 1894.

BEAR IN MIND: "Earthly Footsteps of the Man of Galilee" is a wholly unique production. Never before has a work of like plan and scope been attempted. It has involved three distinct tours of Palestine and the East—the first under special commission for this work. Over 300 negatives were secured in the publication. These views are presented in strictly chronological order, and, with the accompanying descriptions, constitute a complete pictorial story of the Savior, recounting also the journeyings of His Apostles to a Minor, Greece, Rome, and the Archipelagic Islands. Part I. also contains Dr. Stephen J. Andrews' celebrated Outline Harmony of the Gospel and p. in eight colors, on which the journeyings of our Lord and His Apostles are plainly traced. All in all, the work is new, original, accurate, artistic, and unique in every respect. It is copyrighted, thoroughly exclusive, and cannot be obtained save in the manner below indicated.

By special arrangements with the publishers we are enabled to furnish these Art Folios at the small sum of 10c each to our customers. The regular price is 25c, but with each purchase of $1.00 or 10c additional you can secure each Number of this work, which the result of much labor and research on the part of Bishop Vincent, the Chancellor of Chautauque.

STREET TALK.

The second annual meeting of the Ohio Bargain Store Dealers is being held at the Burnet House with the following merchants in attendance:
R. A. Russell, of Bryan; Jos. W.
Veid, Secretary, of Wapakoneta;
Theo. Rabe, of New Bremen; J. E.
Collins, of St. Marys; J. M. Blakely, of Rockford; H. E. Evans, of Canal

Tobs Long and Conductor Mulcahy, of the P. & W. & C., made a bet of an oyster supper on the recent election. Last night Mulcahy paid the bet and Tobs ate two quarts of oysters, then went around the block
when the Democratic oysters parted from him, not liking his company.
Tobs is still sick, the result of over-

OFFICIAL RESULT
Of Last Tuesday's Election in Allen County.

The Highest Majority was Obtained by Sam Winegardner, Who Had 628
More Votes than Your Uncle John Bond.

The Board of Elections last night finished the work of canvassing the vote cast last Tuesday. The result shows that Sam Winegardner, the Democratic candidate for commissioner, led the ticket, he having received 628 more votes than John Bond, the Republican candidate for the same position. The Populists had 310 votes for the notorior Coxey, while the same party's candidate for senator received only 730 votes. The Prohibits cast 695 votes in the county. The total vote cast in Allen county for the various candidates for governor, for state senator and for the Democratic and Republican county ticket is as follows:

For Governor—Campbell 4424; Rushnell 4040; Coxey 810; Ellis 381.
Campbell's plurality 384.
For Senators—Lawler 4290; Johnson 4307; Conley (Republican) 4106;
Brown 4054; Conley (Populist) 730;

MORE BIG BARGAINS.

Porter & Son Have the Mecca for Bargains in Pianos.

Among the hundreds of bargains
that can always be found at Porter & Son's music store, there is now a new one that furnishes an excellent chance for some one to secure a fine high grade piano at a remarkably low figure. The firm has possession of a Square Mathew-chek piano that is almost new and is as good as new, that can be purchased for $125. The piano must be sold soon for the owner is going to leave the city. It is a chance of a life time. Porter & Son now have an enormous stock of pianos from the Stearns down. Pianos that can be bought from $75 up, and a lot of organs that they will sell for $25 up. Pianos and Organs at your own price.

Orders were received by the firm
to-day for two new Steinbeck pianos.

PASSED AWAY.

Death of Mrs. Chris. Walters, of North Main Street—Funeral Saturday.

Mrs. Chris. Walters, aged 47 years; died last evening at 8 o'clock, at her late home 726 North Main street
after an illness of four weeks duration, from inflammation of the bowels. Mrs. Walters, before death, expressed her desire to be baptized into the Catholic faith. At her request Rev. A. E. Manning was sent for and that sacrament of baptism, as was also the last sacraments were administered, after which death claimed her. She leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother, a husband and seven children, the youngest being but two and a half years of age. The funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock, from St. Rose church. Interment will be made in the Catholic cemetery.

Hare and Hound Chase.

Last evening at 8:40 o'clock the hounds were after game, but as the hares could not be found on account of the darkness, the following young athletes ran like Indians from the building out west Market to the base ball grounds, to Spencerville road and return, lead by physical director Boehm: McKinney, Reynolds, Richards, Dalzell, Betz, Sanders, Winemiller, Bargoyne, Graham,
Morris, Tyler, Canteioy, Wilhelm, Kelly and a few others, numbering in all about 16 members.

It was a singular sight to see a band of men, almost presenting themselves as the Greeks did in naturally garb, as the boys had on the regular gym suits and no hats.
Next Thursday the third preliminary chase will take place, and would like to see a few more members with sand to enter at 8:30.

Of Interest to Wheelmen.

The Young Men's Christian Associations all over this land are doing more for young men in preventing disease by conserving vitality, than any other institution.
The local association gymnasium,
in charge of a competent physical director, aims to promote health, develop a good form and carriage and cultivate will power, which surely improves the general appearance.

All wheelmen indulging in racing or long distance riding during the summer season have a tendency of convulsing the chest and expanding the spine and shoulders. The association of Lima is engaging a physical director under a salary to help you counteract your mistakes, and if you take care of your bodies now we are sure to see no constitutional collapse at the finish of a race. We are glad to announce that quite a few cyclists are taking up systematic training, viz: Running, bar bell, dumb bell and apparatus exercises. You are entitled to a physical examination before taking up the regular work.

Everything is free of charge to members.

A handful of young men, receiving $100 checks each month, are inclined to think or say that for a five dollar bill it is impossible to get any good from the privileges offered by the association. Physical director can give you references and signatures of many prominent business men who are availing themselves of the opportunity of taking care of that body without drugs.

MERRY WAR

Being Made Again: the Saloon Keepers in Lima.

By the State Dairy and Food Inspector and the State Inspector of Drugs—Several Cases Disposed of by the Mayor.

The charges filed against several saloon keepers in the mayor's court, yesterday afternoon, were prepared by attorney S. T. McPherson, of Troy, O., and were instituted by State Drug Inspector J. A. Sierrett,
M. D., of Troy, and Ohio Food and Dairy Inspector E. S. Mansfield, of Findlay. The latter two gentlemen made a visit to most of the liquor stores in the city yesterday, and in each place made purchases of blackberry, port or other wine. Their purchases were tested as to purity and measure and the labels on the bottles were noticed. In many cases the wines were of short measure and contained poisonous ingredients.
Several dealers had not complied with the requirements of law in reference to labeling the different wines, and the inspectors filed three charges against one dealer in several instances.

Following is the list of cases filed and the disposition that was made of them:

Frank Dietrick, short measure and not labeling; pleaded not guilty, and case set for hearing Nov. 18th.
James McKeon, impure wine and short measure; pleaded guilty, and was fined $30 and costs for the first offense and $5 and costs for the latter. Fred Ulrich, fined $30 and costs for selling impure wine; Jake Haege, $30 and costs for impure wine and $5 and costs for short measure; Peter Keller, $10 and costs for short measure; Jerry Sullivan, $30 and costs for impure wine; Adam Zimmerman, $30 and costs for impure wine and $5
and costs for short measure. Thos.
Mullin, impure wine and short measure; pleaded not guilty, and case was set for hearing Nov. 18th. Mrs.
Kate Lawrence, for impure wine,
short measure and not labeling;
pleaded not guilty, and case set for hearing Nov. 20th.

Dan'l A. Kelly,

Very few, if any, or our American comedians have a greater or more deserved popularity than Dan'l A.
Kelly. Beginning at the bottom of the professional ladder he has by a thorough conscientious effort attained to the front rank. He is irresistibly funny, although his work is of that peculiarly refined and artistic order which appeals to the best and most cultured people. He never descends to "buffoonery" or other vulgar methods to create laughter. The charm of intelligence and refinement is always noticeable. He is remarkable versatile, and as an impersonator of comic, eccentric and pathetic characters, is recognized without a peer.
The announcement of the appearance of Mr. Dan'l A. Kelly and his talented company in his latest sensational comedy drama, "Outcasts of a Great City," is a guarantee of a thoroughly pleasing performance at Fauro's Opera House to-night.

CORSET ANNOUNCEMENT!

We take pleasure in announcing to the ladies of Lima and vicinity that the Princess of Wales Co., manufacturers of Her Majesty's Corset, will have at our store for one week, Nov. 11th to 16th, Miss Sarah E. Conklin, one of their most expert fitters, for the purpose of explaining to the ladies the many merits of Her Majesty's Corset. We will have a fitting room prepared where Miss Conklin will try upon all ladies, who wish it, a pair of Her Majesty's Corsets, thus illustrating that they will give perfect satisfaction, and create a magnificent figure. We trust all the ladies will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn what a perfect fitting Corset really is. We desire it distinctly understood that ladies will not be expected to purchase a Corset, if they do not so desire, after a fitting is made.

FLOODED WITH WATER.

Feltz Bros. and the U. P. Tea Company's Stock Damaged.

Last night the rooms in the Harper block occupied by Feltz Bros. and the U. P. Tea company were damaged by water from overflowing water pipes in the Lima Telephone office on the third floor. A water cock became useless and as it could not be shut off it deluged everything. The plastering was considerably damaged and some of the Tea company's stock damaged with water. Feltz Bros.
stock was also damaged.

LONG DISTANCE

Telephone Company Organized in this City Yesterday Afternoon.

Connection with the Oil Fields Established for the New Lima Exchange.

A new telephone and telegraph company was organized in this city yesterday under the name of the Western Telephone Company.

The new organization has acquired the lines already constructed throughout the territory by Geo. W. Beers of St. Wayne, connecting the exchanges organized by him at Van Wert, St.
Marys, Wapakoneta, Defiance and this city with toll stations at Moulton, New Bremen, Minster, Laramie, Mendon, Buckland, Hume, Venedo-
cia, Egio, Ohio City, Catrib, Scott, Convoy, Kalida, Continental, Gomer, and other places, making a total of about 150 miles of line now operating.

It is the intention of the company to construct and operate long distance lines throughout this State and in connection with a similar company to extend its lines into and throughout Indiana, connecting all the important towns and cities, thereby giving the exchanges connecting lines and more than local significance. The officers of the company chosen at yesterday's meeting are:
Geo. W. Beers, president, Ft.
Wayne; D. J. Cable, secretary, Lima;
W. H. Duffield, treasurer, Lima; D.
J. Cable, W. H. Duffield, W. L. Parmenter, C. H. Cory, of this city, and
C. S. Bash, H. C. Paul and Geo. W.
Beers, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., directors.

MAGNIFICENT.

An Array of Stock that Cannot be Excelled Elsewhere.

Adolph Fox, the Leading Jeweler, Has Surpassed Everything in Former Years—A Most Complete Holiday
Stock.

A representative of the TIMES-DEMOCRAT stepped into the elegant jewelry establishment of Adolph Fox, on north Main street, last evening, and being shown through the store by the genial proprietor, was amazed at the immense and magnificent stock of jewelers' goods on exhibition in the establishment.

Mr. Fox has made a very extensive selection of goods for the coming holidays, and his efforts to excel everything in the city in former years have undoubtedly been successful. The stock is beautiful and complete in every respect. The taste that Mr. Fox has displayed in selecting his enormous stock is very creditable. He has something in every line of stock pertaining to a jewelry establishment, and has a stock at prices so reasonable that they cannot be surpassed elsewhere.
They are within reach of everyone.
Mr. Fox is an enterprising merchant, and his purchases of imported and home goods are in such quantities and at such figures that other dealers cannot compete with him
in their lowest retail prices.
In the new and immense stock, much of which has been received within the past few days, may be found an excellent assortment of ladies' and gentlemen's gold watches that are the latest improved, a superb stock of diamonds and other fine jewels at a remarkably low figure,
a rare collection of Libbey's cut-glass
table, stand and mantle ornaments, decanters, etc.; many beautiful designs in china ware for parlor cabinets and china closets, beautiful manicure sets, a fine assortment of opera glasses, a large and complete array of silver novelties, a new and up-to-date stock of fine silk umbrellas that are always suitable for Christmas presents, the very latest designs in hair ornaments, and hundreds of other articles that unfortunately cannot be given space for special mention to-day. New goods are being received every day, and the store is already a palace of beauty.
Anyone who expects to purchase holiday presents should not fail to call now while the stock is complete,
make their selections and have goods laid away for holiday gifts. Visitors are always welcome.

ROUTE CHANGED

And the Lima Northern will Avoid Big Damages.

The route of the Lima Northern road has been changed, and it will be built through the farms of Henry Frueh, Chas. Baker and Mrs. L.
Shick, then across the road on the Allstetter and Cooper farms. By making this route, the payment of big damages in the McCullough condemnation suit will be avoided.

The road will be connected up with the L. E. & W. by Saturday.

Disorderly Conduct.

Two colored girls, named Julia Howard and Carrie Johnson, were before the mayor last evening upon a charge of disorderly conduct. They pleaded not guilty, and the time for trial has not been set.

A colored woman named Watson has also been notified to appear.

Died from Typhoid Fever.

Chas. Baber, aged twenty-two years, died yesterday at 10 o'clock at his home in the country, from typhoid fever. The funeral services were held this morning at the Antioch church; interment in Antioch cemetery.

Death of a Child.

Benjah, the three-year-old daughter of Rev. E. T. Danley, of east Elm street, died at 9:30 o'clock this morning from spinal trouble. The remains will be taken to Findlay for interment, leaving on the L. E. & W.
at 1:20 o'clock to-morrow morning.

BETWEEN CARS.

C. H. & D. Brakeman Heider was Savely Squeezed Last Night.

Chas. E. Heider, head brakeman on first section of north bound freight
No. 96, in charge of conductor Frank Cooper and engineer Frank Taubken, on the C. H. & D., was badly injured last midnight at Sidney.

on the short side of a curve, which brought the corners of the cars he was coupling very close together, and caught him and badly squeezed his right shoulder and breast. He was left in the care of the company's physician at Sidney, who gave him

all the assistance possible and him to Lima on the second section
No. 96.
Upon his arrival here he was moved to his home in a hack, wh
he will be laid up for some tim Heider was formerly a conductor the L. E. & W., and has been w the C. H. & D. for the past sever months. Unless he is injured ternally, he will recover.
